

History

Kilnaughtin (the Church of Naughtin) is the original name for the Parish of Tarbert. The medieval Church, graveyard and surrounds can be traced back to a 5th /6th century oratory. The historical context of the site is captured on the information panels at the entrance to Kilnaughtin Church & Graveyard.

Altar Shelter Project
Fundraising Appeal

This Altar Shelter blends in with the natural surrounds of the area and at the same time takes into account the full historical significance of Kilnaughtin. In addition to its function as an Altar shelter it will provide visitors with an opportunity to sit and rest awhile in this spiritual rural oasis that is Kilnaughtin Church and Graveyard.

Currently the maintenance costs, including the cleaning, signage, rubbish removal and the magnificent seasonal flower arrangements are provided for under our annual budget. However, this much needed Altar Shelter project requires a once off fundraising campaign which we have now undertaken.

On behalf of the our Committee, we would like to thank you most sincerely for taking the time to read our proposal and any donation, no matter how small, will be used exclusively for the projects mentioned . All donations will be acknowledged in due course.

We would also like to gratefully acknowledge the professional expertise and direction provided by architect Brian Carey on a pro bono basis.

The Altar Shelter Project

Dear Friend of Kilnaughtin,

We are asking for your financial support for our Altar Shelter Project which has received planning permission from Kerry County Council.

The project has been professionally designed, evaluated and will cost €20,000 to complete. Once we have the funding in place, work will start in early 2020. Any excess funds collected will be used to create a dedicated Kilnaughtin Church and Graveyard website. www.kilnaughtin.ie
